

FIRST DAY OF 3RD GRADE!

Hello 3C Families! We did it! We accomplished our first day of third grade. Today was a mixture of getting to know some classroom routines and getting to know one another in order for us to begin building a safe, positive, happy, and fun learning community.

Here is what we read today:

Here is a list of the activities we participated in:

Hot Potato Share, Open Circle (see separate information letter inside Communication Folder), This Year Will Be the Best chart group activity, and a group juggle name game

The routines we learned about are:

Snack, Morning Jobs, organizing supplies,
Morning Meeting, Participating in Read Alouds

I am sending home Communication Folders with some new paperwork from the school. Good news is that the lunch calendars are inside. Lots of friends were wondering about lunch choices this morning, so those will be helpful to share with your child tonight. Thank you to those of you who were able to return paperwork to me. If you were not able to attend Open House, you'll find papers inside the Communication Folder that are from me. One is a permission release form for different types of communication and the other is a UA schedule. Thank you again for returning the Communication Folders each day.

Just a quick reminder that we do have snack time each day. These third graders are hungry! Feel free to send them in with more than one snack. :)

I am so happy to have been able to meet your child today! I look forward to tomorrow! Every day is another opportunity for me to learn more about each member of 3C, and I'm loving that!

Take a look at our classroom blog tonight! I'll be posting pictures from our first day of school (if I have received your permission for that). The blog address is: mrscoronato.edublogs.org
